

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cooling system for a hot plate. The cooling system includes a plurality of pipelines inside the hot plate. Each pipeline has an inlet and an outlet. The inlet permits a cooling fluid to enter and the outlet permits the cooling fluid to leave. The 5 cooling fluid running inside the pipelines picks up heat from the hot plate and carries away so that the hot plate is cooled.